

Wales' Bat Workers Day

Saturday 10 October 2009
Media Resources Centre (MRC), Llandindrod Wells, Powys

The ever popular Wales' Bat Workers Day will take place on 10 October this year. The day is aimed at anyone with an interest in bats and it will also provide a good opportunity for meeting with others who are involved with bat work.

The programme is almost complete – we have Matt Zeal, Dai Jermyn and Tom McOwat giving presentations plus two workshop sessions covering topics including sound analysis, identification of bat droppings, latest in equipment, and Habs Regs and other interesting legal aspects. A couple of workshop sessions have still to be finalised. Alana Ecology will be there with a trade stand.

Also there will be a 45 minute session for updates from both CCW and BCT as well as for bat group reports.

Please return this form to me by Friday 25 September 2009 at the latest to book your place – space is limited (80 places) so book now to avoid disappointment. The cost is being held at £25.00 for BCT members and £30.00 for non BCT members.

If you have any special requirements and/or would like to bring a poster/display, then please complete the relevant part of the form.

Please use a separate sheet for each delegate. Photocopied forms are accepted. Cheques should be made payable to 'The Bat Conservation Trust'.

Please return the form by Friday 25 September 2008 to
